

The Dean's Speech

Since its foundation in 1987 the college of education for women adopted a future strategy to achieve its goals within the wider vision of Anbar university and its pioneering role in building up the country through the contribution to the society with scientific and educational expertise in all fields of knowledge.

The mission of the college is primarily related to its special position as an official scientific institution which contributes female expertise and proficiencies. The college works to promote the role of Iraqi women in society as an effective partner with men in the process of building and development to raise high the name of Iraq in the international circles and to be in its due rank among the countries of the world as it is the land of civilizations, cradle of knowledge, and the centre of the greatest civilization known in the history which is the Arabic Islamic civilization. Furthermore, our college seeks to consolidate its position among the colleges of our university and the country in general as it is the first college to be founded in our university and was always first in contribution and service of Iraq and to raise high the name of our beloved university on the right path that the university set for itself to achieve its goals.

Because solid foundation is the first base for the success of any scientific institution our college seeks to consolidate the notions of scientific authenticity and the work to realize new higher visions far beyond the limits of ambitions, hopefully for the best in view of the vital status of the university in the governorate especially when the university assumed the leadership of this stage of reconstruction and building to restore Anbar to its former glory as the throbbing heart of Iraq and the rich mead hall of its people.
